Nothing Solved

When Minidoka County voters mark ballots in a bond election the other da nothing was solved. Ufficials had prosed the $180,000 bond to finance ar joi city-county law enforcement buildin But voters turned thumbs-down-on-tl proposal so decisively that it's doubt if the matter will be brought-up-agai. The total vote was $1,620 to 455 against thool issue. Anybne is free to interpr the results, but it should be obylous the hintoka County residents don't was s to pursue the multer-of-building con-uction. Other than a natural opposition increasing taxes, there seems no ical-explanation behind rejection of two issues.

Of course, there could be a thought in the minds of Mindaka citizens that legislative reapportionment and the resulting changes will somehow promote a merger of Jdaho counties. If nothing happens along that line, many counties, in addition to Mindaka, will have to face up to steady deterioration of courthouses. Most Idaho counties are in the same boat in this respect.

It would be interesting to see how Idaho residents would of one a proposal to residents would of one a proposal to
